Peninsula's 'hub' for new industry...p12&13

260 locals start work at Tesco

MORE than 260 unemployed people from the borough have secured jobs at the new Tesco store which opens in Woolwich town centre on Monday, November 26.

They make up a total workforce of 400 at the store and the local recruits were helped back into work at Tesco by Greenwich Local Labour and Business (GLLaB), the royal borough's jobs agency set up to help local people get into jobs and training.

Nearly 100 of the new recruits were due to go along to Woolwich town hall last night (Monday November 12) for a special graduation event having completed an eight-week training course.

GLLaB had received 4,000 applications from locals interested in working at the new store.

Almost 650 were interviewed, including a hundred for specialist jobs including fishmongers, bakers and butchers. Tesco also asked GLLaB to interview for other jobs for the concession businesses going into the store, including beauty consultants and assistants and pharmacy staff.

The new store is part of 1.4million sq ft, multi-million pound Woolwich Central development in Love Lane with the first 259 homes due for completion by the end of next year. Three million pounds of transport and community infrastructure is also to be invested in the area over the project's lifetime.

King John's messy walk!

MY mother-in-law and I are pleased to report that our WeightWatchers sessions at Shrewsbury House, Shooters Hill, are going very well. We back it up with brisk walks around the borough and one of our favourites takes in King John's Walk up to Eltham Palace and Eltham High Street for a well-earned hot coffee. Just one minor niggle: dogs' mess at the bottom of the path. It's cleaned up regularly, we can tell, but it would be better if it was not there in the first place. It's clearly a case of "out of sight, out of mind" for some dog owners as they join the path, but it's not very nice for the rest of us, especially as the autumn leaves tend to camouflage the mess. Most dog owners are very good on this issue, but others obviously not.

Lorraine Otten,
Blackheath

Square traffic needs controlling

I THINK the time has come for the north part of Woolwich New Road to be re-named Tesco Street. It seems to have taken ownership. The temporary traffic lights have caused me and many others to lose considerable time and miss trains. This may have been acceptable for true roadworks but not for applying cladding panels. The bus lane in the other part of the road is very poorly signed and hardly ever enforced. When the Tesco store opens even more cars will try to use the road. Traffic islands are needed. Finally, the traffic chaos in Greens End, General Gordon Place, Powis Street and Beresford Square needs to be resolved. The old one-way route from Powis Street has gone and cars, (mainly minicabs), are driving and parking on the pavement sections. This is a particular problem outside the DLR entrance. Not sure whose bright idea it was to open the gates on Beresford Square while the market is still trading. "Dangerous" doesn't come close. All this is a great shame. The improvements to the squares are being enjoyed by many. Why should they be put in danger by uncontrolled traffic?

Chris Leadbeater, Shooters Hill

●THANKS for your letter. The council apologises for the inconvenience caused by the roadworks, which are necessary for the new Tesco store and the development above it. The works, which include new traffic islands, are nearing completion and will improve that part of Woolwich New Road. The improvements to the Woolwich town squares mean that access is required at certain times for deliveries and servicing. The council is working on measures to control and minimise the number of vehicles in the Square, and has recently upgraded the parking controls and increased parking enforcement and is currently looking at options for improved gating arrangements.

Grateful thanks for some quiet nights

I WOULD like to thank everybody at the safer communities team, Thamesmead Moorings safer neighbourhoods team, and our neighbourhood watch conveners for all the hard work they have put in to bring normality back to our area of Thamesmead. For around 18 months we have been plagued by music, disturbances, people coming and going at all hours of the day and night. There was no thought for other people who lived close by.

When the problem was resolved it was swift and we are back to a peaceful environment. It is really great!

I would say to anybody out there suffering as we were to pick up the phone, contact the agencies, keep a log, get support from others in the community and your problems can also be fixed.

Once again, sincere thanks to all concerned!

Rob, Thamesmead

Tributes to the fallen

SILENT REFLECTION:
wreath-laying ceremony
at Plumstead Cemetery

TRIBUTES were paid to the dead of two world wars and other conflicts at the weekend's Armistice Day ceremonies.

Old soldiers, cadets, members of the Royal British Legion, and civic and faith leaders stood in silence at wreath-laying ceremonies at the town hall and the Memorial Hospital in Woolwich on Friday, November 9. Wreath-laying ceremonies at war memorials in Charlton, Blackheath, St John's and St Luke's churches, Plumstead Cemetery, and Woolwich New Cemetery followed on Saturday. And services were held on Sunday at memorials at St Michael and All Angels Church, Abbey Wood, the Royal Artillery's St George's Chapel on Woolwich Common, and at the Royal Artillery's Firepower museum in Woolwich.

Representing Royal Greenwich at the events were the Mayor, Cllr David Grant, royal borough leader Cllr Chris Roberts, deputy Mayor Cllr Angela Cornforth, and ward councillors.

The Mayor said: "It's very important that we take the time to reflect and remember all those who gave their lives in the causes of peace and freedom, as well as to recall the sacrifices made by civilians."

Consultation events on SE health services

FIVE dates have been announced for local people to give their views on recommendations to help solve the financial crisis at the South London Healthcare Trust.

It follows publication of the trust special administrator's draft report on October 29. The latest public meeting to be announced is on Monday November 26, from 7-9pm at St Mary's Community Centre, Eltham. Other public meetings already announced are:

- Today (Tuesday) November 13, 2-4pm at West Greenwich Community Centre
- Monday November 19, 7-9pm at the Public Hall in Woolwich town hall
- Wednesday November 21, 10am to 12pm at The Forum at Greenwich
- Monday December 3, 7pm-9pm at Charlton Football Club.

A trust special administrator (TSA) was appointed by the Secretary of State for Health in July to make recommendations about the future of health services at South London

Healthcare NHS Trust and in the wider south-east London.

The period for public consultation began on November 2, and ends at midnight on December 13. The draft report contains six key recommendations for the future clinical and financial sustainability of health services in south east London. The secretary of State for Health will consider a final report, after the consultation, before making a decision in early February. A TSA spokesperson said: "We would encourage as many local residents as possible to attend these public events in order to put your views forward. You can also have your say by filling in a questionnaire which can be picked up from GP surgeries or online."

● Details of consultation events and on how to take part in the consultation online, can be found at: www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/nhsconsultation. Questions and comments can also be made by e-mail to tsaconsultation@nhs.net or by telephone at 0808 129 5719 (freephone).

Refuge for all

Borough promotes support for victims of domestic violence

THE royal borough is highlighting the 4,600 cases of domestic violence in the borough every year to mark the International Day of Elimination of Violence against Women next week.

Every quarter, local support agencies help around hundred women. Now the royal borough is working with police and partners to reduce the incidence of domestic violence as part of a new drive.

Most victims are women and girls of all ages from every social background. Many have children. The situation is being highlighted as part of International Day for Elimination of Violence against Women next Thursday (November 22).

A special event is taking place where speakers will include journalist Wendy Turner-Webster, a victim of domestic violence, who takes a special interest in women victims of abuse.

Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the council's cabinet member for community safety, who said: "We take domestic violence very seriously and we are working hard to reduce the incidence rates and their impact. People need to know that there is help available to them, and everything is treated in strictest confidence."

"We hope the event will raise awareness about the various support measures we have in place for those affected by domestic violence and help to safeguard and improve the quality of life of victims of domestic abuse which is not only physical but emotional, financial and mental."

An art exhibition with drawings,

by Dick Townsend-Smith

paintings and collages from victims and their children is also being held in Woolwich town hall, and will run until Friday November 30.

The royal borough supports a number of local projects but most women suffering domestic violence are referred to the Her Centre in Wellington Street, Woolwich. The charity-run service commissioned by the royal borough offers advice, letters to support a housing transfer and guidance on welfare benefits. Referrals come from the police, children's services, housing and health services.

The Her Centre will also signpost male victims of domestic violence to other organisations which can help them.

The royal borough has five refuge houses available to women from other boroughs who are fleeing domestic violence. And there are refuge homes in other London boroughs where Greenwich women can stay.

Call the Her Centre on 020 8260 7772 or visit www.hercentre.org

Top of tourist spots

by Dick Townsend-Smith

GREENWICH'S Grand Old Lady of the Sea, the world-famous tea clipper Cutty Sark, has been given a top tourism award.

She was named best new tourism project in the UK at the 2012 British Guild of Travel Writers awards at the Savoy Hotel in London last week, (Sunday, Nov 4).

The news is a real coup for the Maritime Greenwich World Heritage Site, confirming its status as one of the country's top visitor attractions. Overall Greenwich attracts 18 million visitors a year generating £774m for the local economy and supporting 12,000 jobs.

Cutty Sark reopened to the public in April after an extensive conservation project following the devastating fire in 2007. It is one of many local landmarks being promoted under the Royal Borough's new Discover More campaign designed to encourage people to visit and stay longer in the royal borough.

The travel writers praised the high quality of the work, highlighting the subtle use of new technology that brings the stories of the ship alive while preserving the beauty of the world's last surviving tea clipper.

Richard Doughty, director of Cutty Sark said: "I am absolutely delighted Cutty Sark has been recognised by the British Guild of Travel Writers. The conservation of this national treasure has been one of the biggest and most complex maritime heritage projects ever undertaken and thanks are due to the hard work and dedication of everyone involved in the project."

"Cutty Sark is a real survivor and has always held a special place in the hearts of the public. Already more than 225,000 people have visited the ship during its first six months of trading."

Visitors can now go aboard and beneath the beautiful three-masted clipper and walk in the footsteps of the merchant seamen who sailed her.

Travel industry discovers all about Royal Greenwich

DELEGATES at the World Travel Market found out more about the wealth of fantastic attractions across the Royal Borough of Greenwich from Councillor Peter Kotz, cabinet member for cultural and creative industries. He visited the centre as part of a campaign to make sure people know why Greenwich is one of the best places to stay in London – for a short spell or for a much longer visit.

BAROQUE MASTERPIECE: the wall of Painted Hall

Lottery boost for Painted Hall conservation

THE Old Royal Naval College has been awarded £335,000 towards conservation works in the Painted Hall.

The money from the Heritage Lottery Fund is to help to restore the baroque masterpiece which is open to the public daily free of charge.

The grant will go towards conservation work on the the West Wall, which includes consolidation of plaster and paint layers, repair of old water damage, paint flaking and varnish blanching. The balance of the £475,000 total will be raised by the ORNC from other sources and is part of a wider conservation plan for the Painted Hall costing more than £2m.

The grant will also fund a fully qualified conservation specialist to lead education workshops and a programme of public, community and learning events, allowing visitors to experience the conservation work up close.

Created in the early 18th century by Sir James Thornhill for Sir Christopher Wren's Greenwich Hospital, the Painted Hall is one of the jewels in the crown of the ORNC, which was voted 11th most popular attraction in 2011 with over 1.7 million visitors. , and is a major attraction in the Maritime Greenwich World Heritage Site.

CEO Brendan McCarthy said: "The support of the Heritage Lottery Fund is enabling us to carry out long needed work on the jewel in our crown, the Painted Hall. Equally importantly the grant means that we can run a programme of events and activities during the conservation work which will mean that visitors and our local community can enjoy a deeper understanding both of Sir James Thornhill's masterpiece and the conservation process."

PETER CORDWELL gets on the front foot to meet the tennis tourists and the young beginners at the ATP World Tennis finals at The O2

PRIMARY school pupils got some expert coaching from a famous mum prior to watching her son - Andy Murray - do his stuff against Novak Djokovic in the Barclays ATP World Tour Finals at The O2 on Wednesday, November 7.

Modern approbations like "cool" and "awesome" - plus the latest "epic" - were uttered by the excited children from Woodhill in Woolwich as they tried backhands, volleys and slices in the practice area of the iconic arena.

Year 6 pupil Najmo Dahir told GT: "I loved doing all the tennis activities, and now we're getting to see Andy Murray!"

Schoolmate Jenusan Krishnilingam said: "It was excellent. Tennis is a great sport to play."

Judy Murray gave 10 and 11-year-olds their tennis taster alongside coaches from sports firm Head UK.

Judy said: "It was an absolute pleasure to work with the pupils from Woodhill. The future of tennis is with young people and we need to make sure the coaching net is spread as wide as possible to catch as much talent as we can."

Teacher Jyoti Marwah said: "The children have a had wonderful day. A theme throughout the school has been resilience and we felt that top class tennis was a great example of that, linked to great sportsmanship."

The tournament ran at the North Greenwich arena from November 5-12.

Andy Murray was the big draw for the crowds, alongside the tour's top players, Novak Djokovic and Roger Federer.

The event is the latest in a series of activities to promote tennis among young people in the borough. With an investment of £220,000, including £106,000 from the Lawn Tennis Association, the borough last month opened four new adult courts and four mini-tennis courts at Hornfair Park in Charlton.

As well as being available for public use, the courts are used by Greenwich City tennis clubs to offer a range of courses.

Cllr Peter Kotz, cabinet member for cultural and creative industries, said: "This has been a fantastic year for tennis with British success at the Olympics followed by Andy Murray's fabulous Grand Slam victory.

"It's great to be able to welcome Andy and his fellow competitors back to Greenwich, and I am sure their presence will help to generate further enthusiasm for the sport.

"The enthusiasm shown by Woodhill pupils demonstrates a high level of interest among our young people for taking part in tennis, and I am pleased that we have been able to offer new facilities for tennis enthusiasts of all ages, as part of our Olympic legacy investment."

FIRM FRIENDS: Margaret and her five tennis-mad pals

Fans flock for Andy and Fed

FROM Durham, Milton Keynes and Ruislip – the first three vox-poppers chosen at random by GT as they expectantly crossed the concourse to The O2...and to Andy, Roger, Novak and the five other stars.

Sadly, there was no Rafa, laid low by injury, at the annual tennisfest known as the Barclays ATP World Tour Finals.

The tennis tourists - 17,000 everyday - were back in the borough that's become royal since the players last crossed racquets. "We come every year," said Margaret Pounder from Chester-le-Street in County Durham, who was with five old friends. "We're here for Andy Murray today and think his chances are good. We used to play tennis together, way back. We like to come here because you see the top players. We've also been in the cable car, which is great, and we'll be eating here later."

The ladies went in to watch Murray battle back to beat Thomas Berdych 3-6, 6-3 6-4 in their first round-robin match.

Uma Sankr was there with his daughter Shraye and playing partner Sarat from Milton Keynes.

"This is my second time here and I expect to come every time. We are Murray and Federer fans but it's special to have the top players coming here."

It was first time at The O2 tennis for Shirley Lovell and her daughter Lesley Lovell - who got to county level - from Ruislip. "I've played the game since I was about eight," said Shirley, still a lively 77. "We like the more sporting atmosphere in tennis. We're also Wimbledon freaks and went to the Paralympics to watch the tennis."

Famed poker player James Akenhead, who lives in Blackheath, catches the 108 bus every year. "The appeal is having the top eight players, in effect missing out the early rounds," he said, "and the venue is just magnificent."

"All the top players would love to play in a poker tournament here, no question."

Drivers, cyclists: THINK!

BRADLEY Wiggins' collision last week showed that even gold medal-winning cyclists aren't immune from the dangers of the road.

A new Department for Transport initiative calls on drivers and cyclists to stay safe by looking out for each other.

The Think Cyclist campaign asserts that drivers and cyclists have more in common than is often realised.

Eighty per cent of cyclists hold a driving licence, and 20 per cent of drivers cycle at least once a month. They are often the same person.

Traffic police attribute two-thirds of car-bike incidents to the motorist, with just a fifth deemed to be the fault of the cyclist.

But bike users play a role in staying safe, by abiding by the laws of the road and making themselves visible.

Hi-vis clothing and lights on bikes cut down the risks of being involved in an accident, while car drivers – especially when turning out of a junction – are urged to be vigilant when looking out for riders.

The chances of being involved in a road accident are slim, and cycling campaigners maintain that the health benefits of riding far outweigh the risks.

Councillor Harry Singh, the royal borough's cabinet member for Greener Greenwich said: "This is an important campaign that we are supporting here in Greenwich. 'We're encouraging people to cycle in the borough, and Think Cyclist should help keep riders and drivers safe.'"

THINK: advice for drivers

- Look out for cyclists, especially when turning – make eye contact if possible so they know you've seen them
- Use your indicators – signal your intentions so that cyclists can react
- Give cyclists space – at least half a car's width. If there isn't sufficient space to pass, hold back. Remember that cyclists may need to manoeuvre suddenly
- Always check for cyclists when you open your car door
- Follow the Highway Code including 'stop' and 'give way' signs and traffic lights

THINK: advice for cyclists

- Ride positively, decisively and well clear of the kerb – look and signal to show drivers what you plan to do and make eye contact
- Avoid riding up the inside of large vehicles, like lorries or buses, where you may not be seen
- Always use lights after dark or when visibility is poor
- Wearing light coloured or reflective clothing increases your visibility
- Follow the Highway Code including 'stop' and 'give way' signs and traffic lights

Hire and hire

NHS Greenwich's bike loan scheme has seen more than 140 people borrow since July. Participants report health benefits, as well as benefits to their pockets.

Ignatius Odugbo told GT: "I loaned a bike for one month and really loved it. Using the bike to get to Woolwich Arsenal saved me a lot of time and money – about £20 per week".

He found out about the scheme from a Greenwich Get Active advisor in Woolwich. Ignatius added: "After the month's loan I decided to buy a second-hand bike for £200. I pay £50 a month.

I also use the bike for doing my shopping in Woolwich Arsenal. I save about £80 per month on buses and taxis and so getting the bike was a great choice for me!

"I feel healthier and I have lost a bit of weight too. Since joining the scheme I have bought my children bicycles, and they cycle to school."

ROYAL BOROUGH OF GREENWICH LONDON LOCAL AUTHORITIES ACT 1990 AS AMENDED PROHIBITION OF ITINERANT ICE CREAM TRADING IN DESIGNATED STREETS IN WOOLWICH SE18

Greenwich Council is intending making a resolution designating the following streets in Woolwich SE18 in the Royal Borough of Greenwich as "prohibited streets" under the provisions of section 37 of the above legislation.

The streets are: Anglesea Road (from Woolwich New Road to Anglesea Avenue), Barnard Close, Beresford Square, Bunton Street, Calderwood Street (from Thomas Street to Powis Street), Clara Place, Creton Street, General Gordon Square, Greens End, Hare Street, McBean Street, Monk Street, Murrays Yard, Parry Place, Powis Street, Spray Street (from Woolwich New Road to Taylor Buildings), Thomas Street, Vincent Road (from Woolwich New Road to Helen Street), Wilmount Street (from Woolwich New Road to Anglesea Avenue), and Woolwich New Road (from Beresford Street to Anglesea Road which includes General Gordon Place).

Itinerant ice cream traders operating in streets that are not designated as either "licensed streets" or "prohibited streets" are exempt from street trading legislation. The effect of the resolution will be to remove this exemption from street trading legislation that applies to itinerant ice cream traders operating in the streets specified above. Unless specifically licensed by the Council all ice cream trading by street traders in these streets will be unlawful.

Itinerant ice cream traders will continue to be able to trade in other streets throughout the Borough which have not been designated as either "licensed" or "prohibited" streets. Under the Act, the Council only has the power to pass this resolution if it considers it necessary in the interests of preventing obstruction to traffic, or undue interference or inconvenience to persons using the street.

The Council is now seeking views as to whether the itinerant ice cream vans that operate in these specified streets do cause obstruction to traffic, or undue interference or inconvenience to persons using the street. If you have been affected by itinerant ice cream vans operating in the specified streets or you have any comments to make on the proposed resolution please write with as much detail as possible to: Bob Newland 1st Floor 20 Calderwood Street, London SE18 6QW or email: Robert.Newland@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Any comments on these proposals need to be made in writing not later than 14 December 2012.

Closing Date: 23rd November 2012.

TWO restaurants have reopened after they were shut down for flouting food hygiene rules after visits by royal borough environmental health inspectors last month.

They called in at Helen's Kitchen at 123 Woolwich High Street on October 30 and Ekitoobero restaurant at 87 Blackheath Road on October 24 to conduct routine food hygiene inspections.

At the Woolwich eatery they found an uncontrolled rat and mouse infestation and poor standards of cleaning in the kitchen. Large quantities of rodent droppings were found throughout the premises, including in food preparation areas and on food storage containers.

Conditions presented an imminent risk to health and officers were forced to immediately close the premises.

A week earlier they had visited the Ekitoobero restaurant where officers found extensive rat and mouse infestations, as well as cockroach activity. Food packaging was gnawed and contaminated with rodent droppings.

There were poor standards of cleaning and repair throughout the kitchen and food storage areas. But the restaurant was allowed to reopen on October 27 after a deep clean had been carried out. Both establishments had received food hygiene advice in the run up to the Olympics in order to support their business.

Cllr Maureen O' Mara, the royal borough's cabinet member for environment and community safety said: "In the run up to the London 2012 Games we worked closely with eating establishments in the borough to ensure they were safe for visitors.

"We expect traders in the food sector to maintain a high standard of cleanliness and hygiene. We will continue to monitor both of these premises and to offer our support and other business owners who need advice or support are welcome to contact us on 020 8921 8186."

GREENWICH Peninsula is making a name for itself as a fast-growing home to the new digital industries. A community of businesses have been attracted to the location by the £70million award-winning Ravensbourne university college which is training the next generation of digital designers and engineers, as well as Digital Enterprise Greenwich, a business base offering high-spec office space, cutting-edge technology and communications equipment to businesses of all sizes. Their shared location means ease of collaboration between the technology innovators and developing digital businesses. And initiatives led by the royal borough are helping to attract further investment to develop learning opportunities and create jobs. Now, together with the neighbouring O2 – the most successful entertainment venue in the world – the peninsula is increasingly playing host to major showcase events attracting a range of international names in the technology industries. HILARY BRYAN and DICK TOWNSEND-SMITH went to find out more about what's happening in the London's newest business district.....

YOUNG people had an app-solutely fab day discovering a range of new technologies last week. Pupils from four Greenwich schools were among hundreds invited to the National Soccerdome next to The O2 arena for Think Big Digital Day last Wednesday. It was a chance for young people aged 14 to 16 to learn about the digital technologies and get some hands-on experience during a day of events and activities. The event was the latest example of the peninsula being used by a major firm to showcase its innovations and build links with people.

There were talks and workshops along with discovery and interactive sessions where young people could learn new digital skills and use them to solve problems. There was also a chance to question experts from leading firms in the industry including Facebook, Mozilla and Nokia.

The aim was to help young people gain a greater understanding of the digital world, develop their creative thinking skills and learn about training opportunities and career options within the digital industries. It was a chance to encourage young people to be 'creators and makers' of digital products rather than just consumers.

The day follows research showing that lack of experience can be a major barrier to employment for young people. As a result, telephone company O2 and its parent company Telefonica linked up with Bauer Media to launch a £5million programme, set to create up to 30,000 work experience opportunities for 14 to 25-year-olds across the UK over the next three years. It coincides with a new website – www.gothinkbig.co.uk – where young people can get career advice and information.

Fifteen-year-old Crown Woods college student Zilan Uddin spent the first session working with his friends to edit a video, then moved on to a problem-solving exercise using the internet to tackle a community issue. "We decided to develop a programme to raise awareness of the dangers of carrying knives," Zilan said. "We want to develop it further as something we can take into schools. "It was a really interesting day."

Fellow Crown Woods student Abdulhakim Ajetunmobi, also 15, created a new website to help young people choose a job, and told GT: "We'd like to develop it further – it's been great, and I think an event like this can really inspire people."

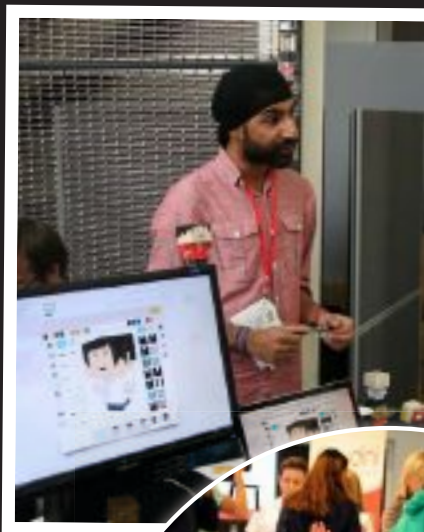

Kerry Troupe, the college's ICT adviser, said, "The students found the event really useful and we have come across some fantastic teaching tools – which we definitely intend to download and use back in the classroom."

APP designer Roman Grigorjev didn't have to look too far for a base for his business.

Living in Greenwich Millennium Village meant he went past Digital Enterprise Greenwich everyday so it was the ideal spot to base his company 'Guessmate'.

The centre, launched by the Royal Borough of Greenwich, provides fully serviced office and meeting space to digital businesses and links to nearby Ravensbourne, where businesses can share ideas and access the latest digital facilities.

Guessmate is one of 20 businesses and projects in the centre and among 140 including companies in Ravensbourne. The three-strong team has settled quickly since moving into the 10th floor of the Mitre Passage building in September.

Roman is founder and managing director of the firm, which designs smartphone apps for a range of organisations including the National Archives and the Kennel Club.

The 31-year-old, who launched the firm four years ago, told GT: "There are so many benefits to being here – It's close to Ravensbourne, and because we are in a creative and design industry, potentially that's a great source of employees, partners and ideas for us. Mitre Passage has spare offices downstairs, and as and when we need to expand, there won't be any difficulties finding space."

And he added: "Most importantly - it's an incredibly area to be in. We really want to make Greenwich Peninsula a silicon peninsula. It has huge potential and the more start ups that set up shop here, the better."

"It's an ideal spot for a digital hub being close to The O2 which is one of the biggest entertainment centres in the world, and Ravensbourne has got all the design links."

The 'National Virtual Incubator' launched by Cisco Systems will make it easier for businesses to communicate electronically and share information, ideas and resources. The royal borough-led initiative was praised as an example of driving new economic growth through high-tech innovation. Cllr Denise Hyland, the royal borough's cabinet member for regeneration, economy and skills, said: "The digital technologies are a key growth sector and Greenwich Peninsula is rapidly becoming London's premier digital location attracting a range of technology companies drawn by the facilities, skills and knowledge on offer. Our aim is to create a thriving commercial hub which will provide job opportunities, particularly for young people, support small businesses and boost the local economy." ● For more information about Digital Enterprise Greenwich visit www.digitalenterprise.uk.com

A market place for technology

THIRD-YEAR students at Ravensbourne are marketing their talents, skills and ideas next week to potential customers and the public.

The showcase is the third annual Penrose Festival, and this year it will be spread over two days instead of one.

The festival takes place next Tuesday (November 20) between noon and 9pm, and the following day, Wednesday, between noon and 7pm.

On the first day freelancers and small businesses can sign up for the courses. The second day is the public to check out the students' businesses and see their work.

The trade fair is being organised by the students themselves. They have set up nearly 140 digital businesses and will be exhibiting and selling their work – from fashion designs to digital expertise.

"You can scope, discover, network with, and purchase from the next generation of industry leaders in the design world," said Emma Wright, one of the student organisers. "You can see ground-breaking designs created from state-of-the-art technology with Ravensbourne's facilities. Companies launching their work will include Internet-based concepts, installations, custom fashion products as well as lifestyle products."

Students will also be offering free taster courses in an 'Introduction to All Things Digital' to help small businesses and freelancers to get the most from the digital world. They include how to build an app, and protecting work on the web.

Shaken not stirred in Greenwich

BOND'S back on the big screen...and so is Greenwich.

Skyfall is Daniel Craig's third outing as the spy, and sees a reinvention of the agent as a grised, boozy Bond who's losing his touch.

The modernisation of the character debunks the myths of previous outings and brings a refreshing realism to the caper, much of which was filmed in south-east London.

The Old Royal Naval College inevitably makes an appearance – albeit a brief cameo housing a somber funeral sequence, and Millennium Way plays host to a car chase in Bond's iconic silver Aston Martin. New Cross and Bermondsey also feature.

Skyfall's a return to form for the franchise, after the unfocused bling of Quantum of Solace four years ago.

MAN WITH THE GOLDEN TAN: Skyfall is return to form for Bond

The surly performance from Craig is measured and convincing. For large parts of the film, gone is the famous suit, and it's back to gritty brawling, flying fists and hangover stubble.

It's the platform for one of the best Bond baddies in decades: Javier Bardem as agent-gone-bad, Silva, has the brooding menace and sinister haircut to match any classic from Cubby's cupboard.

The film's climax opens the door for a new era for the spy, so perhaps he's not over the hill after all...

It's not the first time James Bond has visited Greenwich. In 1999 Pierce Brosnan dropped into Greenwich Peninsula for The World Is Not Enough. The secret agent landed on the top of The O2, (then the Millennium Dome), after a high-speed boat chase down the Thames.

Skyfall is the latest in a long line of big screen appearances for the borough. Most recently, the film industry has used the Old Royal Naval College as a backdrop for Les Misérables, Sherlock Holmes, The Iron Lady, and Pirates of the Caribbean.

BOOM TIME: The Rats (sans Bob). Garry is far right

WHO would have thought a bunch of lads from Ireland whose favourite pastime was hanging out and listening to blues would become a punk rock band with a 30-year career?

It was how it all began for Boomtown Rats guitarist Garry Roberts, who formed the group with Live Aid founder Sir Bob Geldof.

Garry told Scene: "All of us lived in the same area of Dun Laoghaire. Bob [Geldof] lived at the top of my road, Johnny was a friend's younger brother who played piano and I played guitar."

"We all used to hang out and listen to records. We were influenced by 1960s rhythm and blues acts like Chuck Berry, The Kinks, the Pretty Things and The Who. I preferred harder pop stuff like The Yardbirds, I'm quite a closet heavy-metaller at heart."

Boomtown Rats guitarist Garry Roberts talks to GRACE LIPSKI about Sir Bob's departure, and a gig at Blackheath Halls...

And don't worry if you don't like Mondays, Boomtown Rats perform at Blackheath Halls on Saturday, November 17. Eddie and the Hot Rods support. "I'm looking forward to it," said Garry - "We played with Eddie a few times back in the old days at Dublin University, and they're great."

The six-piece - Bob Geldof, Garry Roberts, Simon Crowe, Pete Briquette, Johnnie Fingers and Gerry Cott formed as The Boomtown Rats in 1975, releasing their eponymous debut in 1977.

The Irish rockers went on to make five more records and scored 12 UK top 40 singles. In 1981, guitarist Gerry Cott left the group and Sir Bob left the group five years later after kicking off his charity campaigning with Live Aid.

The band split, but Garry and Simon reformed in 2008, sans 'The', as Boomtown Rats.

The 58-year old is still in touch with Sir Bob. He said: "We're still friends, he comes to gigs every now and again. There's a strong chemistry between us all. Last time Bob played with us was for in 1986 for Self Aid, a charity gig to encourage employment of young people. Also we appeared as a band at Live Aid and that was an amazing occurrence."

Garry says the band's got better with age: "We are a four-piece now - but the energy comes through just as powerful. When I go on stage it still feels the same. You're putting your cards on the table, you're exposed in front of everybody whose waiting for you to play and you're sort of saying, 'look at me I'm great!'"

"I liked the energy of our first three albums, they were more guitar driven. That period was the best."

Garry's best memories are from travelling the globe with the Rats. "I remember when we were in the States flying from Los Angeles to Denver," he said. "We flew over the Grand Canyon. Seeing it from the air was an astonishing experience. And the first time we landed in LA we stepped off the plane and the smell was so distinctive - the eucalyptus, the concrete and the exhausts fumes all mixed together. And I really enjoyed wandering around the streets of New York."

Boomtown Rats and Eddie and the Hot Rods play Blackheath Halls on Saturday November 17 at 8pm. Tickets £20 in advance, £22 on the door, 020 8305 9300, www.trinitylaban.ac.uk

The best medicine

COMEDY CRUSADER: John Ryan plays the Earl of Chatham

STOP me if you've heard this one before: A man walks into a pub...

But this time there are no horses with long faces, tiny piano players, frayed knots or Ouch punchlines - the man's a comedian and he's going to be riffing on blokes' ailments.

Comic John Ryan is dropping into the Earl of Chatham in Woolwich to promote men's health.

The gig's part of Alcohol Awareness Week, and John's at the pub on Thomas Street on November 22.

He'll be using every gag in the book to get cagey men to open up about their health problems.

On the agenda for the gig which kicks off at 8pm is why blokes hate going to the doctors and why they can't say what they feel.

On this occasion, laughter really could be the best medicine...

John Ryan is playing two sets on Thurs Nov 22, the first at 8pm. Free entry

Jazz fest star: he's Theman!

SAXOPHONIST Art Theman plays Greenwich Jazz on November 16.

The 'Gentleman of Jazz' is joined on stage by John Donaldson on piano, Tim Wells on bass and Trevor Tomkins on drums.

Tickets are £8 on the door, and there's a discount rate of £7 for GreenwichCard holders. Cream lyricist Pete Brown is also on the bill. The poet-singer earned his stripes alongside Eric Clapton, Jack Bruce and Ginger Baker on hits, Sunshine of your Love, White Room, and I Feel Free.

The night's laid on by Global Fusion Music and Arts, and founder Louisa Le Marchand performs poems from her book, Whispers in the Mists of Time. She accompanies on harmonica. Beat poet John Clarke also features, reading from his collection, All the Way from Kathmandu. The MC for the evening will be poet and writer Sandhya Kaffo.

Charlton House, Charlton Road, SE7 8RE
Tickets £8/£7 on the door or at: www.wegotickets.com Info: 0208 858 9497

THE INDIGO2

The Magic of Motown
Thurs Nov 22

R'N'B, soul and pop all have to tip their hats to the music of Motown. The record company was established in Detroit in 1960 by producer mogul Berry Gordy Jnr, and it's influenced music across the genres with its powerful arrangements and emotive lyrics. Some of the business's most successful artists and hits were born from Motown records over the decades, including a flux of artists that went on to be household names including Diana Ross and The Supremes, The Four Tops and The Jackson Five.

To celebrate 50 years of hits, The Magic of Motown concert makes a stop on its national tour at the Indigo2 on Nov 22, reviving tracks and choreography from bands of the era.

The cover bands are odds-on to play all the hits - My Guy, Stop in the Name of Love, I Want you Back, Blame it on the Boogie and I Heard it Through the Grapevine.

The Magic of Motown is at the Indigo2 on Thurs Nov 22 at 8pm. Tickets from £32.00. 0844 844 0002, www.theindigo2.com

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 313

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 21 November 2012 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 18 November 2012.

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

GreenwichHomes adverts

Greenwich Time is now being published 50 weeks a year and is delivered to all residents. GreenwichHome adverts are included in every issue.

Walk to work...out

HEALTH chiefs are urging residents to keep on walking this winter. It's claimed that a walk, as well as helping fitness and cash flow, can help fend off colds and the winter blues.

In Greenwich almost half of journeys are less than two miles, which would take between 20 and 30 minutes walking, meaning it's often the quickest way to travel. Building exercise into a routine is an easy way to reach the recommended 150 minutes of exercise per week.

Tips to keep walking this

OUR WALKING FEAT: workers out for lunch-time stroll

winter include:

- Get a pedometer and monitor daily step count - 10,000 steps are recommended per day

- Walk to work instead of using the car or bus - it saves finding a car parking space or purchasing a bus ticket

● If your workplace is too far away, try taking the train or bus and then walking the rest of the journey

- Take a walk with the family at the weekends through one of the borough's parks

- Find out about circular walks in the local area by visiting www.greenwichgetactive.com
- Greener Greenwich is giving away 25 pedometers to local people. To enter, email a photo of yourself on your walk to work to greener@greenwich.gov.uk

Waterfront open day sport challenge

THE Waterfront Leisure Centre is calling on couch potatoes to get off the sofa for a day of sports challenges.

The royal borough leisure centre, run by GLL, is holding a 'Be Inspired' open day this Sunday, November 18. Visitors can challenge themselves in six sports including swimming, football, athletics, gymnastics, badminton and basketball from 10am-3pm. Qualified sports instructors will be there to put people through their paces and inspire families to take up a local sports course. Visitors who take part in the free challenges will get a free swim that day, and they will also be entered into a prize drawer to win a fabulous prize. The sports day builds on a range of new and upgraded sports facilities funded by the royal borough as part of its Olympic legacy programme. ● More details about Be Inspired open days please keep checking www.better.org.uk partnership 20 years ago in response to desperately challenging and difficult problems which afflicted our communities at that time.

"The initiative was also inspired by the club's supporters, bringing the values of community and respect into the campaign. The CARE partnership marked the genesis of a process which has clearly established Charlton as the model community-focused club.

"Red, White and Black Day is a chance to celebrate our 20th anniversary and all that has been achieved so far."

Addicks boss Chris Powell added: "We've led the way in campaigning for equal rights for all and promoting diversity among people of all backgrounds, and we've shown what should and can be done.

"Our commitment to tackling these issues is part of the fabric of this club, and long may we continue to be a shining light in this area."

FA chairman David Bernstein sent a message of support for the day. He wrote: "Over the past two decades, the outstanding and innovative partnership between Charlton and the Royal Borough of Greenwich has been a benchmark for others to follow.

"Your unique relationship has created opportunities for the wider community in south London to unite through football."

20 years of CARE

THE CARE partnership between Charlton Athletic and Greenwich Council celebrated its 20th anniversary with a special award ceremony at The Valley on Saturday, November 3.

Red, White and Black Day ended with a 4-1 defeat by Middlesbrough, but tolerance, respect and diversity were the winners on an important day for football.

The Charlton Athletic Race and Equality partnership with the council received the award from the national Kick It Out campaign in recognition of its "outstanding contribution to promoting equality and tackling discrimination". Charlton boss Chris Powell said: "Red, White and Black Day is always a special day in the football calendar for us, but it's even more so this season because it's our 20th anniversary.

"As we enter our third decade of campaigning, the high-profile incidents we have seen in the game recently show that we cannot afford to be complacent, and that efforts to tackle these issues must continue."

Council leader Chris Roberts said: "Greenwich Council and Charlton formed the CARE
